Part II.

SUBSTANCE OF INTERVIEW DESCRIBING THE GENERAL NATURE OF WHAT WAS DISCUSSED:
the focus of the discussion was centered in the differences between the position of the feed tank or feed distribution space with respect to the feed space elements 12 and 13 in current figures. The language in claim 14 reads on "the feed distribution space spaced positioned laterally and at least partially around the at least one feed space"; that language covers tanks or chambers located near the filter tank, including the lower section receiving the feed from the bottom at a lateral inlet opening which are partially around a portion of the tank (see EP758. The feeding and receiving tanks are in communication with the filter (membranes) and although the feed tanks in EP are not mounted one on the side of the housing for the membranes, the embodiment including one feed distributor mounted at the outside of the filter housing is not positively claimed in this application, and the connection of the feed distribution tank in current invention does not exclude the use of feed conduits to connect the fluid with the filter feed space. We agree in the claim (14) and corresponding claim directed to the process of using the filter (claim 26) need to be amended to provide more structure of the whole compact filtration unit.
